

Mongolians tried to use stolen card

TWO Mongolian men went jewellery shopping in VivoCity after a trip to Sentosa.

One fancied a diamond ring and a white gold bracelet, worth a total of $2,500, and he took out a credit card to pay for the items.

But alert sales staff at Aspial-Lee Hwa Jewellery in VivoCity had a feeling that the name on the card – Yeo Jia Yeh – was that of a woman.

Their hunch that it was a stolen card was right. The card, as well as another one, had been filched earlier from Ms Yeo's bag in Sentosa.

Although the accomplice is still at large, Dandar Enerel, 25, pleaded guilty yesterday to dishonestly receiving stolen property and conspiracy to cheat.

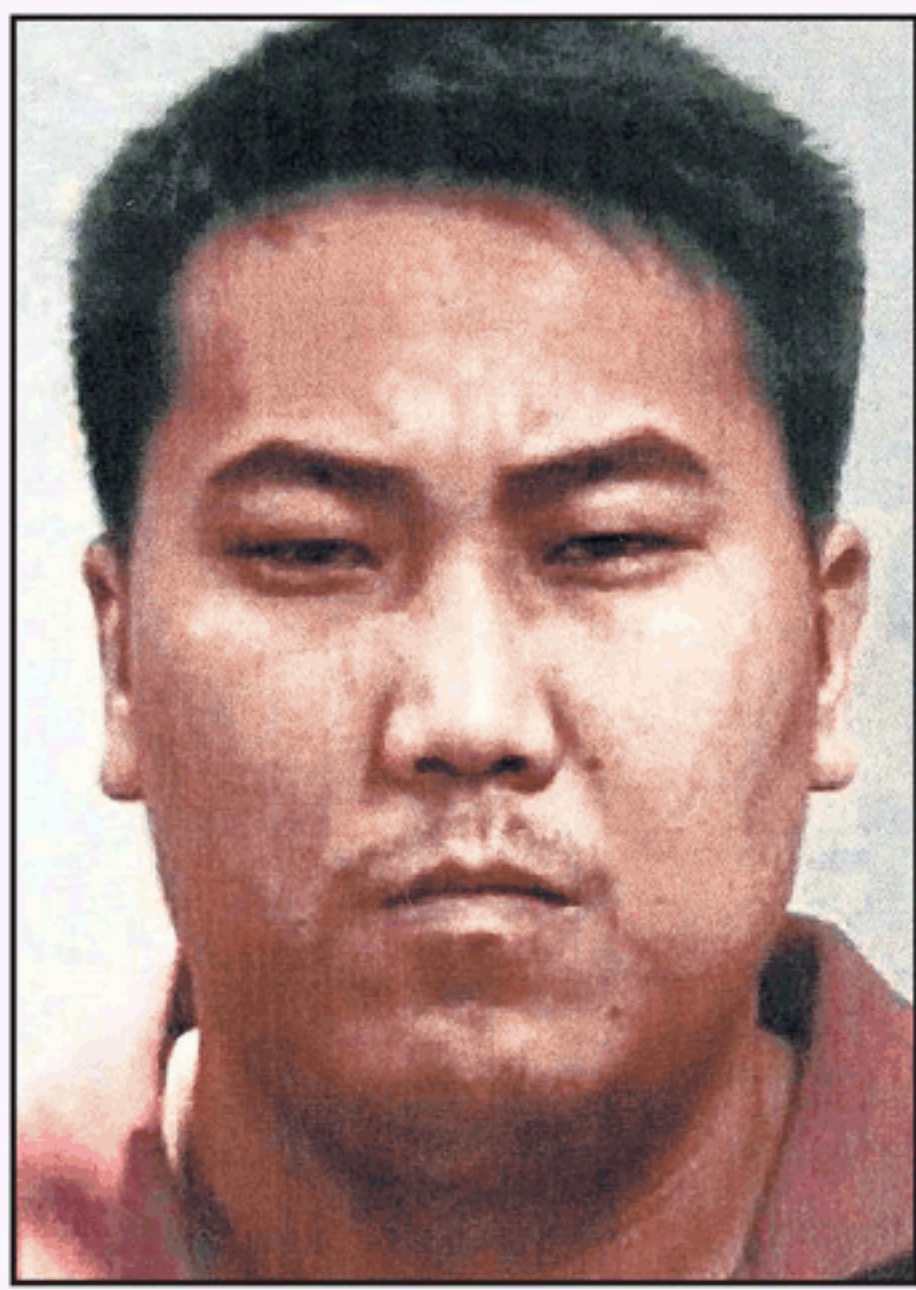

He was jailed for 21 months.

Another conspiracy-to-cheat charge was taken into consideration.

The district court heard that on Dec 19, the two men had gone to Sentosa where the accomplice stole Ms Yeo's credit cards.

He passed them to Dandar.

The two men then went to the jewellery shop where security officers of VivoCity were called in after their ruse was detected.

GUILTY: 25-year-old Dandar Enerel has to serve 21 months' jail.
